NOTES IN SEASON.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just published, uniform with their edition of Zola's novels, "The Downfall," translated by E. P. Robins, first published six years ago by Cassell Pub. Co. They will publish shortly a popular edition of Martin A. S. Hume's interesting work, "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready Alphonse Daudet's last book, "The Head of the Family" ("Le Soutien de Famille"). It has been translated by Levin Carnac, and contains a critical sketch by Prof. Adolphe Cohn, of Columbia University, and 29 illustrations by Marchetti. They have also published a new edition of "A Handbook of Musical History and Bibliography," by James E. Matthew, which commends itself to students desiring a brief and handy survey of its subject. The text has been brought up to date, and the pages are adorned with many apposite and excellently printed illustrations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish next week the first volume of the Murray edition of "The Poetical and Prose Works of Lord Byron." This volume includes "Hours of Idleness, and Other Early Poems"—over 500 pages in all, with seven illustrations. Eleven of the poems are now first published. The poetry in this edition will be edited by Earnest Hartley Coleridge, and the letters by Rowland E. Prothero, with the co-operation of Lord Byron's grandson, the Earl of Lovelace. This edition, published as it is with the co-operation of the representatives of Lord and Lady Byron, contains many hitherto unpublished letters, poems, and portraits.

D. APPLETON & CO. have just ready "The Standard-Bearer," a story of the "Terrible Year" (1685), in which the Duke of Monmouth was executed for attempting to wrest the throne of England from James the Second; "Studies of Good and Evil," a series of essays upon problems of philosophy and life, by Josiah Royce, of Harvard University; and the fifth edition of Heilprin's invaluable "Historical Reference Book," revised to 1898 and provided with a biographical supplement, which now comprises a chronological table of universal history, a chronological dictionary of universal history, a biographical dictionary and geographical notes.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. have just ready an important work, in two large volumes, entitled "Drake and the Tudor Navy, with a history of the rise of England as a maritime power," by Julian S. Corbett, with a number of plates, charts, and other illustrations; "A Memoir of Major-General Sir Henry Creswicke Rawlinson," by Canon Rawlinson, with an introduction by Field-Marshal Lord Roberts; and a timely volume in the Fur, Feather, and Fin Series on "The Salmon," by the Hon. A. E. Gathorne-Hardy, with chapters on the law of salmon fishing by Claud D. Pennant, on cookery, by Alex. I. Shand, and eight illustrations by Douglas Adams and Charles Whymper.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a popular edition of Dr. Nansen's "Farthest North," in one volume, printed from new plates, containing Dr. Nansen's narrative of his famous Polar expedition, and the appendix by Otto Sverdrup, captain of the Fram, as found in the Library edition, with a portrait of the author and sixteen of the more important illustrations contained in the two-volume edition. They have also just ready "A Boy I Knew and Four Dogs," a charming volume with an autobiographical flavor, by Laurence Hutton, with a number of illustrations, and "The Gods of Our Fathers," a study of Saxon mythology, by Herman I. Stern. They will publish, May 17, "Pendennis," the second volume of the Biographical edition of Thackeray's works; "The Story of a Play," by W. D. Howells; "Thirty Strange Stories," by H. G. Wells; "Ghosts I Have Met," by John Kendrick Bangs; "Paradise Lost: Its Structure and Meaning," by Prof. John A. Himes; and "Collections and Recollections," by an anonymous author, who is said to be a prominent English Radical, a member of Parliament and one of the literary craft.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc. is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S. Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. The pruning book: a monograph of the pruning and training of plants as applied to American conditions. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 9+537 p. 12°, (Garden-craft ser.) cl., $1.50. [1347

Baly, J. Eur-Aryan roots: with their English derivatives and the corresponding words in the cognate languages compared and systematically arranged. N. Y., imported by H: Holt & Co., 1898. V. 1, 781 p. 8°, cl., net, $15. [1348

Barnes, Irene H. Behind the pardah: the story of C. E. Z. M. S. work in India; with preface by Rev. T. A. Gurney; il. by J. D. Mackenzie and Percy R. Craft. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] 12+264 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [1349

The Church of England Zanána Missionary Society devotes itself specially to the evangelization of needy Hindu women. The pardah is the hanging curtain before the zanána, or woman's apartments, of a Hindu establishment. The writer describes the condition of the 130,000,000 of Hindu women with deep feeling. She feels that with the English conquerors rests the responsibility to change the horrible state of ignorance in which they live, to Christianize and to educate them.

Bashford, Herbert. Nature stories of the northwest. San Francisco, Cal., The Whitaker & Ray Co., 1898. c. 3-149 p. il. D. (Western series of readers, ed. by Harr Wagner, V. 3.) hf. leath., net, 50 c. [1350

Stories of the cougar, the black bear, the Douglas squirrel, the kingfisher, the ruffed grouse, the sea otter, the elk, the drone, the gull, etc., etc.

Besant, Sir Walter. The rise of an empire. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield, [agt. for Ja. Bowden, 1898.] 125 p. nar. D. (Story of the empire ser., no. 1.) cl., 50 c. [1351

The first of a series of small books to be devoted to the rise of Great Britain's wealth and power throughout the earth. The object of the present volume is "to explain the causes and the principal steps which led to the extension of the Anglo-Saxon power, as we can now contemplate it, over every part of the habitable globe." It has chapters on: The making of a people; The extension of a country; The lessons of Virginia; The empire of the west, of the east of the south, and of the isles; The heritage of the race, and The future of the heritage. To be followed by other volumes, telling the story of India, Australasia, South Africa, Canada, etc.

Bible. New Testament. The Eversley Bible; arranged in paragraphs, with an introd. by J: W: Mackail. In 8 v. V. 7, St. Matthew-St. John. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 341 p. 8°, cl., $1.50. [1352

Bugg, Lelia Hardin. The prodigal's daughter; and other tales. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1898. c. 255 p. D. cl., $1. [1355

The heroine of the first story is a young girl, who comes to live in a suburban town, in which her father had gained in the past an unsavory reputation. It is needless to say that "The prodigal's daughter" is not given the welcome that is usually accorded to the "prodigal son," although her experiences are amusing. The titles of the other stories are, Westgate's past; At the pension Roget; The major.

Burdick, Francis M. Selected cases on the law of partnership, including limited partnerships. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1898. c. 11+691 p. O. cl., $4.50. [1356

An amplification and revision of the volume issued privately by the author a few years ago. Designed to meet the demand for a systematic presentation of theology of moderate compass, modern in spirit but reverent and constructive. After the introduction on "religion and theology," "the sources of Christian theology," etc., there are six parts treating of God, man, sin, Christ, the Holy Spirit, and the divine life in man, and "things to come in this world and beyond this world." Author is professor of Christian Theology in Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.

Coffin, M: An index to the Old and New Testaments; intended to encourage the audible reading of these inestimable writings, by designating those chapters containing expressions rather improper to be read in mixed companies. 1809; reprinted 1898. Phil., Friends Book Assoc., [1898.] 12 p. Tt. pap., 5 c. [1361

Crockett, S: Rutherford. The standard-bearer. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. c. '97, '98. 10+98 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1363

A romance of the Scottish Covenanters. The story opens in 1685, "the terrible year," with a vivid picture of the pursuit of the fugitive Covenanters by the dragoons. The hero, who becomes a Covenanting minister, sees many strange and stirring adventures. The charming love story which runs through the book is varied by much excellent fighting and many picturesque incidents.

Cunningham, W:, D.D. An essay on western civilization in its economic aspects, (ancient times.) N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 12+220 p. 12°, (Cambridge historical ser.) cl., net, $1.50. [1364

Davidson, T: Rousseau and education according to nature. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 6+253 p. D. (Great educators ser.) cl., net, $1. [1365

The opening chapter sets forth the "ideas and aspirations current in Rousseau's time—authority, nature, and culture." Rousseau's life and educational theories are the subjects of ten other chapters. Mr. Davidson says: "In my volume on 'Aristotle,' I tried to give an account of ancient, classical and social education; in the present volume I have endeavored to set forth the nature of modern, romantic, and unsocial education. This education originates with Rousseau."

Davy, Mrs. E. M. A daughter of earth. N. Y., and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1898.] c. '92. 3-244 p. D. cl., $1. [1366

See notice "Weekly Record," P. W., June 18, 1892, [1064.]

Dickens, C: Works. Gadshill ed.; ed., with introds. and notes, by Andrew Lang; il. with the original sketches by Seymour, H. K. Browne, Cruikshank, Pinwell, F. Walker, Landseer, and others. In 32 v. V. 10-24. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. 12°, cl., ea., $1.50. (Corr. price.) [1367

Contents: V. 10, 11, The old curiosity shop; v. 12, 13, Barnaby Rudge; v. 14, 15, The personal history of David Copperfield; v. 16, 17, Bleak House; v. 18, Christmas books—A Christmas carol, The cricket on the hearth, The haunted man, The battle of life, and The chimes; v. 19, 20, Little Dorrit; v. 21, A tale of two cities; v. 22, Great expectations; v. 23, 24, Our mutual friend.

Fleming, W: H. How to study Shakespeare; with an introd. by W. J. Rolfe. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1898. c. 15+429 p. D. cl., $1. [1368

The author has made "A bibliography of the first folios," and is editor of "Much ado about nothing," and First and Second Henry IV. in the Bankside edition. This book is specially intended for the use of Shakespeare clubs. It gives a consideration of the subject of the play under notice, explanatory notes, a table of acts and scenes in which each character appears, a chapter of questions and a list of books which comment upon the play under discussion.

General digest, American and English annot. Refers to all reports official and unofficial. V. 4. New ser. Rochester, N. Y., The Lawyers' Co-operative Pub. Co., 1898. c. 10+1766+31 p. O. shp., $6. [1369

Gray, Andrew. A treatise on magnetism and electricity. In 2 v. V. 1. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 16+479 p. 8°, cl., net, $4.50. [1370

Griffith, Mrs. Harriet P. Roelofson. Ursula at home. Morristown, N. J., published for the author, Mrs. Griffith, by Vogt Bros., 1897. c. 7-391 p. por. il. O. cl., [1371

This series began with "The little Ursula book," telling of a little girl's youngest days. In this volume Ursula has reached seven years of age. Her mother gave her plenty of work and plenty of amusement, and taught her many things which other children will learn in pleasant shape from this story.

Griffith, W: Trialogues. Kansas City, Mo., Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Co., 1897. 7+65 p. S. cl., $1. [1372

This poem, in four parts, named Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter, is a dramatic criticism of modern life, from the standpoint of the journalist.

Heilprin, L: The historical reference book: comprising a chronological table of universal history, a chronological dictionary of universal history, a biographical dictionary, with geographical notes for the use of students, teachers, and readers; rev. to 1898. 5th ed., with a supplement. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. c. '84, '98. 12+590 p. D. hf. leath., $2. [1373

Herrick, Rob. The gospel of freedom. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. c. 4+287 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1374

The story of a restless, brilliant, modern American woman. The scene shifts between Paris, Chicago, and Florence. Incidentally there is a suggestive commentary on modern art. The various new faiths and isms with which cultivated women fill their time and their minds are proved to be unsatisfying. The sane, well-balanced character remarks: "Life is not fulfilled in that way. To accept the world as it comes to our hands, to shape it painfully without regard to self—that brings the soul to peace."

Hichens, Rob. S. The Londoners. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1898. c. 2+338 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1375

The most frivolous side of London social life of today has been taken by the author of "The green carnation" as a study. Its mental decadence is cleverly illustrated through a variety of characters, capitally drawn. The scene is laid chiefly in the modern palace of a manufacturer of popular "buns," which is rented by a wealthy widow, Mrs. Verulam, for the Ascot races. In the train of Londoners who accompany Mrs. Verulam is an American divorced woman, who masquerades in men's clothes and passes for her late husband.

Huddilston, J: H. The attitude of the Greek tragedians toward art. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 8+119 p. 12°, cl., $1.25. [1376

Hutton, Laurence. A boy I knew and Four dogs. N. Y., Harper, 1898. c. 10+87 p. il. O. cl., $1.25. [1377

These two sketches were originally published in St. Nicholas, and, as the writer says, are true histories, which he hopes will interest boys and girls. The reader soon discovers that "the boy" is the writer himself. "He was not a very good boy, or a very bad boy, or a very bright boy, or an unusual boy in any way. He was just a boy." The story of the pranks and intelligence of his four dog friends is charmingly told also.

Kennard, Mrs. Mary E., [Mrs. E: Kennard.] In the toils of the charmer. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1898.] c. '94, '98. 4-344 p. D. (Globe lib., v. 2, no. 284.) pap., 25 c. [1378

The scene is Devonshire. The heroine is the buxom daughter of the village blacksmith of Beachmouth, who refuses to marry the man whom her father wishes her to marry, and falls in love with an unknown hermit. The story of their strange and unconventional wooing is told, and the mystery in the life of the hero is eventually revealed.

Kenyon, Ja. B: A little book of lullabies. Syracuse, N. Y., Foote, Bailey & Sackett, [1898.] unp. S. bds., 35 c. [1379

Eight dainty little poems in a unique binding of thick white paper bound at the back with crimson velvet.

Key, Francis Scott. The star-spangled banner. [Also] The American flag, by Jos. Rodman Drake. N. Y., The Critic Co., 1898. 4 p. O. (Critic leaflet, no. 6.) pap., 10 c. [1380

Lamour, J. Artistic wrought iron work of the eighteenth century in Nancy, and the Castles Chantcheux and Commercy; with preface by D. Joseph and explanatory text in German. N. Y., Bruno Hessling, 1898. 22 pl. F., $8. [1381

Lazarus, Emma. The banner of the Jew; reprinted from the Critic June 3, 1882. N. Y., The Critic Co., 1898. c. '82, 2 p. O. (Critic leaflet, no. 5.) pap., 10 c. [1382

Lord, Eleanor Louisa. Industrial experiments in the British colonies of North America. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1898. c. 10+154 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies, extra v. 17.) cl., $1.25. [1383

"It is my purpose in this monograph to describe the attempts of the British government to force upon their colonies in North America a new industry, which, it was believed, would materially benefit England by supplying the navy with materials usually purchased at high rates from Norway, Sweden, and Russia, and at the same time provide the Americans with commodities to exchange for British manufactures. The success of these experiments varied according as the given enterprise helped or hindered the industries already developed in the colonies."—Author's preface.

McCall, H: S. The clerk's assistant; cont. a large variety of legal forms and instruments, adapted not only to county and town officers, but to the wants of professional and business men throughout the U. S.; forms wholly revised and rewritten by W: H. Silvernail. 5th ed. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1898. c. 9+1136 p. O. shp., $5. [1384

Magruder, Julia. A realized ideal. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1898. c. 2+135 p. S. cl., $1.25. [1385

When Philip Drury, a famous African explorer, is introduced, he is exchanging views on matrimony with his sister-in-law, to whom he describes a preconceived ideal, declaring that if he marries, his wife must be a woman resembling the mythical conception. Soon after this conversation the hero's ideal is realized, but his happiness is not complete until he is tested as described.

Maitland, F: W: Township and borough: being the Ford lectures delivered in the University of Oxford in the October term of 1897; with an appendix of notes relating to the history of Cambridge. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 9+220 p. 8°, (Cambridge University Press ser.) net, $2.75. [1386

Moody, Helen Watterson. The unquiet sex. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 6+159 p D. cl., $1.25. [1387

Five papers entitled: The woman collegian; Women's clubs; Women and reforms; The evolution of "woman"; The case of Maria. One of these papers appeared in the Forum of September, 1893, under another title, and attracted much attention.

Moses, T: Half-hours with the Christ. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., [1898.] c. 2-260 p. D. cl., $1. [1388

A widow beginning to fear that her bright boy and girl were becoming too much interested in worldly and exciting entertainments, arranged a series of evenings for Bible study, which she contrived to make so interesting that many of the young people of the place became earnest students. Her principal point was to make her hearers feel what Christ should be in their own day and in their own lives.

Moulton, R: Green, ed. The modern reader's Bible: a series of works from the sacred scriptures presented in modern literary form; ed. with introd. and notes. [V. 18, 19.] The Psalms and Lamentations. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. c. 2 v., 32+216; 4+247 p. 24°, cl., ea., 50 c.; mor., ea., 60 c. [1389

Myers, Minnie Walter. Romance and realism of the southern gulf coast. Cin., The Rob. Clarke Co., 1898. c. 6+137 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [1390

An attempt to preserve some of the romances and superstitions of the Gulf states. The writer has collected, condensed, and arranged her material skilfully, and has endeavored to trace the traditions and stories of our southern Gulf states from the founding of Louisiana to the present day in a connected, chronological narrative.

Nansen, Fridtjof. Farthest north: being a record of a voyage of exploration of the ship Fram, 1893-96, and of a fifteen months' sleigh journey by Dr. Nansen and Lieut. A brief hand-book of New Church history compiled from scattered sources, and chronologically arranged (Bibliography). The compiler's purpose has been to lay the foundation for a more extensive work.

Pantaleoni, Maffeo. Pure economics; tr. by T. Boston Bruce. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 13+315 p. 8°, cl., net, $3.50. [1395

Renan, Jos. Ernest. The apostles; including the period from the death of Jesus until the greater missions of Paul; tr. and ed. by Jos. H: Allen, D.D. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1898. c. 8+315 p. O. cl., $2.50. [1396

This work was published by Renan in 1866, and the translation is from the thirteenth edition. The final chapters contain probably the most complete picture of the moral and social condition of the world at a great historical epoch that has ever been given. Renan had an artist's imagination, a curious faculty of historic sympathy, and a familiarity with Catholic tradition which gives the key to much information that could be attained by no other aid. This is the eighth and concluding volume in the Renan histories.

Rise and fall of the United States: a leaf from history A.D. 2060; by a diplomat. N. Y., F. Tennyson Neely, [1898.] c. 205 p. D. (Neely's popular lib., no. 114.) pap., 25 c. [1397

A rapid and true sketch of our history is offered in the first one hundred and fifty pages, delineating our development as a nation into our present greatness. With the year 1925 it is prophesied that our decadence will begin—our final disintegration coming in 2060. The concentration of wealth and the dissatisfaction of the poor bring about a revolution, which attains its object of grasping the capitalists' wealth and dividing it among those less favored. The period following the revolution and the attempt to equalize wealth shows the country in more desperate straits than ever. The author's argument is that capital and labor are interdependent.

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel. The blessed damozel: as first written by Dante Gabriel Rossetti, and first published in The Germ in 1850. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield, [agt. for Ja. Bowden,] 1898. 3+25 p. sq. D. bds., $1; pap., 50 c. [1398

A reprint of the poem in its original form.

Royce, Josiah. Studies of good and evil: a series of essays upon problems of philosophy and of life. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. c. 16+384 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1399

Contents: The problem of Job; The case of John Bunyan; Tennyson and pessimism; The knowledge of good and evil; Natural laws, ethics, and evolution; The implications of self-consciousness; Some observations on the anomalies of self-consciousness; Self-consciousness, social consciousness, and nature; Originality and consciousness; Meister Eckhart; An episode of early California life—the Squatter Riot of 1850 in Sacramento; Jean Marie Guyau.

Y., The International News Co.,] 1898. 369–464 p. 8°, pap., 50 c. [1400

Continuation of Muret's Encyclopædic English-German and German-English Dictionary, popularly known as Muret-Sanders's dictionary.

Sanders, G: A reality; or, law and order vs. anarchy and socialism: a reply to Edward Bellamy's "Looking backward," and "Equality." Cleveland, O., The Burrows Bros. Co., 1898. c. 4–239 p. O. cl., $2. [1401

The writer considers "Equality" and "Looking backward" wonderfully interesting dreams. Neither, he believes, solves in any way the many problems of capital and labor, but, on the contrary, foments anarchy. He sets forth his views in chapters headed: Dreaming and dreamers; Character and culture the basis of civilization; The present industrial system; Some real statistics for dreamers and pessimists; Evolution—in law; Mammonism, its perils and advantages; The masters of bread; Brotherly love; What God might have done.

Schopenhauer, Arthur. The wisdom of life: being the first part of Arthur Schopenhauer's "Aphorismen zur lebensweisheit"; tr., with a preface, by T. Bailey Saunders. N. Y., P: Eckler, 1898. 18+99 p. O. (Liberal classics, v. 3, no. 32.) pap., 25 c. [1402

Sheldon, Mary B. One thousand men for a Christmas present; il. by L. J. Bridgman. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1898. c. 7–62 p. D. cl., 50 c. [1406

The crossing the Delaware River to the New Jersey shore by the Continental army under General Washington, with the taking of Trenton and the surrender of a thousand Hessians, are the central incidents of a story for young people. There are two boys, who follow in the rear of the army and witness all these events.

Sherwood, Mrs. Mary Eliz. Wilson. Here, there, and everywhere: reminiscences. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1898. c. 5+301 p. por. O. cl., $2.50. [1407

Delightful reminiscences delightfully told of Italy and Victor Emmanuel, Rome, the Italian lakes, Ober-Ammergau, Empress Eugénie, Bernhardt, Coquelin, etc. And touching the pleasant hours among pleasant people in our own country, Mrs. Sherwood remembers General Scott and West Point, N. P. Willis, Washington Irving, George Bancroft, etc. There is a good chapter on the decadence of the American watering-place, and one on books that society reads.

Shoemaker, W: L. La santa yerba: preluded by a few choice mottoes from lovers of the Indian weed from the time of Sir Walter Raleigh to the present day. Bost., Copeland & Day, 1898. c. '97. 4–119 p., Tt. bds., $1. [1408

The dedication is a poem to smokers and lovers of "La santa yerba" (holy herb), the Spanish name for tobacco. Among the writers who have inscribed thoughts and eulogistic verses to tobacco and the pipe are Charles Lamb, Shakespeare, Byron, Ben Jonson, Lilly, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and many others.

Stern, Herman I. The gods of our fathers: a study of Saxon mythology. N. Y., Harper, 1898. c. 29+269 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1409

Mr. Stern describes, for the instruction of men and women of to-day, the primitive beliefs in regard to the creation of the world—of the Mist-home in the North, and of the Fire-home in the South; of the first human being, Buri, and of the father of gods and men, Odin, and of the Ice-giants—implacable enemies to both gods and men. The gods and their abodes are discussed; the queens of Asgard; Loki and his brood; the giants and dwarfs; the adventures of Thor, etc.

Stockton, Frank R: The girl at Cobhurst. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 5+408 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1410

A love-story, with a plot full of ingenious surprises, with its scene laid in a little country village named Cobhurst. The hero of the tale and his sister come here, and are soon at the mercy of a crotchety, match-making old maid, who endeavors to control the hero's affections. The characters are all entertaining, and the incidents fresh and novel.

Stories by foreign authors; French. In 3 v. V. 1 and 2. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 7–167; 7–194 p. pors. S. cl., ea., 75 c. [1411

Contents: V. 1, The siege of Berlin, by Alphonse Daudet The juggler of Notre Dame, by Anatole France; Uncle and nephew, by Edmond About; Another gambler, by Paul Bourget; The necklace, by Guy de Maupassant; The black pearl, by Victorien Sardou. V. 2, The substitute, by François Coppée; The attack on the mill, by Emile Zola; The Virgin's god-child, by Emile Souvestre; The sempstress' story, by Gustave Droz; The Venus of Ille, by Prosper Mérimée.

Strassburger, E:, Noll, F:, Schenck, H:, and Schimper, A. F. W. A text-book of botany. (Lehrbuch der botanik für hochschulen,) tr. by H. C. Porter. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 9+632 p. 8°, cl., net, $4.50. [1412

Strickland, Teresa Hammond. Under the ban: a South Carolina romance. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1898.] c. 3–225 p. D. cl., $1. [1413

An eventful story, which opens before the war. The would-be lovers of a noted southern belle are introduced while playing cards; this game is followed by a duel, and the heroine favors the vanquished rival. The victor thereafter plays an important part in a novel which portrays the social life of the planter, and revives episodes of slave life.

Swain, H: H. Economic aspects of railroad receiverships. N. Y., published for the American Economic Assoc. by the Macmillan Co., [1898.] c. 5+53–161 p. D. (Economic studies, v. 3, no. 2.) pap., 50 c. [1414

Taft, Levi R. Greenhouse management: a manual for florists and flower lovers on the forcing of flowers, vegetables, and fruits in greenhouses, and the propagation and care of house plants. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., 1898. c. 10+382 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [1415

A supplementary volume to "Greenhouse construction," by the same author, although each of the books is complete in itself. The present work deals with plants commonly cultivated by florists and amateurs, and explains the methods that have been most successful in growing them. Especial consideration is given to the cultivation of roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, violets, smilax, and other choice flowers and plants.

Tigert, J: Ja., D.D. The making of Methodism: studies in the genesis of institutions. Nashville, Tenn., Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, (Barbee & Smith, Agts.) 1898. c. 14+175 p. O. cl., $1. [1418

"As a contribution to the correct construction of our governmental history this volume is intended," says Dr. Tigert, the editor of The Methodist Review, in his preface. The studies are on the following subjects: The Episcopacy, The Presiding eldership, The Itinerancy; five additional chapters are devoted to The genesis of the general and annual Conference, and one to the Baltimore Conference system of government in American Methodism. The appendix offers an article on "Orders, Roman and Anglican." Index.

Tilney, Rob. Gleanings from poetic fields: translations from the German and other languages, and original verses. Phil., J: C. Winston & Co., 1898. c. 8-139 p. S. cl., $1. [1419

Extracts from the works of Schiller, Goethe, Uhland, Rückert, Lamartine, Vitalis, Björnson; with selections from Horace, and fifteen poems by Robert Tilney.

United States Army and Navy. Our army and navy, what you want to know about them: a description of our country's fighting forces on land and sea; with tables. N. Y., J. A. Rawson, Jr., and F. S. Crawford, [1898.] c. 3-126 p. por. il. pap., 25 c. [1420

An effort to give in condensed form complete and accurate information about the naval and military resources of the United States.

Virgil [Lat. Virgilius] Maro, Publius. Bucolics and Georgics: with introd. and notes by T. E. Page. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. 40+396 p. 16°, (Macmillan's classical ser.) cl., net, $1.10. [1421

Walsh, W: Pakenham, (Bp.) Heroes of the mission field: links in the story of missionary work, from the earliest ages to the close of the eighteenth century. 4th ed. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1898.] 7+249 p. D. cl., $1. [1422

First series of brief biographies of noted missionaries, with a historical sketch of Apostolic and early Christian missions of the first three centuries. The period covered is from A.D. 374-1798.

Walsh, W: Pakenham, (Bp.) Modern heroes of the mission field. 4th ed. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1898.] 10+344 p. D. cl., $1. [1423

A supplementary volume to "Heroes of the mission field." The time covered is from 1805-1871.

Ward, Mrs. Mary Augusta [Mrs. T: Humphry Ward.] New forms of Christian education: an address to the University Hall Guild. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 39 p. S. cl., 35 c. [1424

The writer of "Robert Elsmere" believes that "we are on the eve of a new Christian philosophy; and if Christianity is to retain its vitality, we shall see before long many struggles over the conditions of church membership in the various Christian bodies. But the faith of nineteen centuries has been no delusion." The Lord will require love and faith of everyone. "The most lovable thing history contains," she says, "is the story, character, and teaching of Jesus Christ." And she also thinks, no matter how our knowledge may increase, there can never be higher faith than faith in the perfectibility of the spiritual element in man.

Ward, W: G. Tennyson's debt to environment: a study of Tennyson's England as an introduction to his poems. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1898. c. 3-100 p. S. cl., 50 c. [1425

Although the work is a literary study rather than a biographical sketch, the surroundings, associations, and other conditions and influences of Tennyson's life are carefully considered, for the purpose of showing their effects on his writings. Especial study is made of "The minor poems," "In memoriam", and the "Idylls of the king." Contains short chronology, and a bibliography (2 p.).

White, Matthew, jr. A born aristocrat: a story of the stage. N. Y., Frank A. Munsey, 1898. c. 2+228 p. S. cl., 25 c. [1426

A wealthy New York family suddenly reduced to extreme poverty have to struggle with the problem of earning a living. There are two beautiful sisters, with many gifts, but no thorough training in any line by which money may be earned. By chance one finds an opening in a leading New York theatre. Her experience, realistically told, illustrates the trials and uncertainties of an actor's life.

Wiggin, Mrs. Kate Douglas, [now Mrs. G: Christopher Riggs.] Penelope's progress: being such extracts from the commonplace book of Penelope Hamilton as relate to her experiences in Scotland. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1898. c. '97, '98. 4+268 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1427

A continuation of Mrs. Wiggin's story of "Penelope's English experiences." In this new tour of fun and observation, Penelope and her two friends take in Scotland and the Scots, as they find them in Edinburgh and the vicinity. Bound in Scottish plaid manufactured for the book at the famous Anderson factory in Glasgow.

Wormeley, Katharine Prescott. The cruel side of war with the Army of the Potomac: letters from the headquarters of the United States Sanitary Commission, during the Peninsular Campaign in Virginia in 1862. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1898. c. '88. 9+210 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1428

The work was originally published by Ticknor & Co. in 1888, under the title, "The other side of war." A tendency to misconstrue the title of the first edition led to the present change.

Zola, Émile. The downfall (La débâcle) (The smash-up); tr. by E. P. Robbins. [New issue.] N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1898. c. '92, '98. 2+565 p. 12°, cl., $1.50. [1429

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

KARSLAKE & CO. have published an interesting "Catalogue of the First Exhibition of Bookbinding by Women," held at their rooms, 61 Charing Cross Road, London, England. The catalogue is illustrated and has an introductory note by Curzon Eyre. (18 p. sq. 12°.)

THE Bollettino della Società Bibliografica Italiana is the title of a new magazine published since last January. The Bollettino is mainly an organ of the Società Bibliografica Italiana of Milan, though it also gives full information of kindred societies. A few pages of each number are given up to notices of important new bibliographical publications. The editor of the Bollettino is Dr. Giovanni Marl, of Milan, and the publishers are the Istituto Italiano D'Arti Grafiche, Bergamo, Italy.

FOLLOWING the example of the publishers of other countries, the Romansch-Swiss publishers have combined for the publication of a classified trade catalogue of the books they issue. This catalogue is to be well printed and typographically handsome. The titles are divided into twenty-eight general classes, which again are subdivided into closest classification, the class of education alone having sixteen subdivisions. It has been suggested that in a new issue it would be interesting to mark with an asterisk all authors of Swiss nationality, and with some other designation the Romansch-Swiss authors, as in their portion of Switzerland intellectual life is conceded to be more intense than in any other section of equal size in any other country.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 30, 1898.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE WAR AND THE BOOK TRADE.

As we go to press war has been declared between the United States and Spain, and hostilities have actually begun. It must be a matter of regret to all sober-thinking people that the conflict could not in some way have been avoided, and that the representative government of the new world, whose laws and institutions stand for all that is elevating and peaceable, should have missed the opportunity of accomplishing through peaceable means what the governments of the old world are apt to obtain by violence. However, as actual war cannot possibly have a more depressing effect on conditions generally than threatened war has had, we must take what comfort we can in that view, and trust that the struggle may be as short as possible, and that our policy be attended by success and victory

For ten weeks, at least, the book trade has felt the effects of the imminence of war in a more or less distressing manner. While the publishing houses have worked with undaunted and surprising activity, the jobbers and retailers have been conservative, and inclined to order only to supply immediate wants. Active hostilities will for a time have a stimulating effect on trade, and the vast amounts of money put into circulation by the government for war purposes will no doubt touch trade at many points. As indecision and uncertainty give way, buying will be resumed, and in the revival the alert bookseller will no doubt obtain his share. Even now, with the awakening interest in general and naval warfare, in the history and geography of the countries involved, the wide-awake and well-posted bookseller has an opportunity of turning over a part of his stock for which in times of peace he has but little call or sale. For particular information of books relating to Cuba that he may remember with profit, we refer the bookseller to the list prepared by A. P. C. Griffin, published by the Government Printing Office as "Senate Document, No. 161." This list includes also references to collected works and periodicals, and a bibliography of maps prepared by P. Lee Phillips, superintendent of the maps and charts department of the Library of Congress. For references on Cuba, and incidentally on Spanish interests in America, W. E. Foster's Bulletin of the Providence [R. I.] Public Library for March, 1896, pp. 80–82, and for books on Spain the Bulletin for March, 1898, pp. 65–71, will be found useful. Larned's "History for Ready Reference" may also be consulted for works relating to Spain.

THE New York Herald has withdrawn its suit against the San Francisco Chronicle for reprinting its copyrighted news despatches. Since withdrawing its suit the Herald has announced that it does not object to the reproduction of its news despatches on the following day, provided due credit is given to the Herald; but it protests against their publication in any paper on the same morning in which they appear in the Herald. This course, unfortunately, does not settle the mooted question whether or not facts or information can be copyrighted. Probably, as the law stands, the Herald would have lost its suit. While it is possible that a person may copyright an item of news in its peculiar type or headings, it is doubtful whether the information itself could be removed from the reach of anyone who desires to reproduce it in any form. It has been held that an imitation which is colorable is an infringement of the copyright, but how it would be if that imitation took the form of a statement of exact facts is problematical. Perhaps the question at issue will never be decided, for no out-of-town newspaper will feel that it can afford to take the chances of a lawsuit for the privilege of cribbing the Herald's specials.

SUIT TO MAINTAIN THE PRICE OF A CATHOLIC PRAYER-BOOK.

THE suit brought by John Murphy & Co., of Baltimore, Md., against the Christian Press Association Publishing Company of New York, the details of which were given by us in our issue of March 5, 1898, page 438, came before Justice Smith, of the Supreme Court, on the 25th inst. At the trial the defendants admitted that they had not kept the agreement, which they held was not binding upon them. They admitted selling the book for $1 and giving a discount of 50 per cent. to the trade on all sales. They said they were not bound by the agreement of the assignors. They set up that while the agreement fixed a fair rate for the book in 1889, the cost of printing has been so reduced that $1.25 is too much now, and that it would be against public policy and the anti-trust laws to hold an agreement good which fixes and holds a price far above the value of the commodity.

There was another provision of the agreement on which little stress was laid at the trial to the effect that each party to the agreement would pay to the ordinary of the diocese in which the book was published six cents for each book. The plaintiffs say that they have paid into the diocese at Baltimore six cents for each manual they have sold. The defendants admit that they have made no such payments.

The Rev. James L. Meagher, who organized the defendant company, testified that while the agreement fixed a rate for the prayer-book which was fair in 1889, the expense of getting out the book has been so reduced by machinery that it now costs about 50 per cent. less. He did not think he should be a party to charging the laity an exorbitant sum for a book for religious use. His company sells the book to the trade for 50 cents and to clergymen at the same rate. The manual which the plaintiffs sell for $1.25 he can make complete for sixteen and a quarter cents. His own edition, which has black and red lettering, as distinguished from the former, which is all in black type, costs twenty-nine and a half cents. His company pays nothing to the ordinary of this diocese because he did not think that so large a sum as six cents should be taken out of a book of that price by the Church. He said it would be lowering the dignity of the Archbishop to offer him that money.

Justice Smith said that he would want briefs on the legal questions raised and particularly on the matter as to whether the defendants are, as assignees of the copyright, bound by the terms of the assignors' contract.

WAR AFFECTS PRICE OF PAPER.

THE war has already had an effect on the paper market, and it promises to increase the prices further in a very short while. It is claimed that the paper manufacturers in the United States use a large amount of sulphur, and since it has been declared contraband of war the price of the common brands of sulphite pulps has gone up $4 a ton, while in the other brands a proportionate increase in price has been declared. It is believed that prices for news, books, and manilla papers will be very materially affected. If Great Britain should see fit to allow the sulphur received at Montreal and Vancouver to be brought across the line, on account of the bulk of it being used for manufacturing purposes other than the manufacture of powder, it would clear the situation to a great degree.

As a result of the advance in the price of paper, a number of the newspapers in the State of New York have increased their prices from one to two cents per copy. Similar action is expected on the part of Chicago papers.

ASHBURNHAM LIBRARY, PART III.

THE third and final portion of the collection of printed books, the property of the Earl of Ashburnham, will be sold at Sotheby's, in London, during the week commencing May 9. There are 1183 lots, and the entire collection of 4075 lots will have occupied twenty days in the dispersal. This truly wonderful library shows no sign of falling off, either in general interest or individual rarities. Perhaps the two most striking features of the sale are the first five editions of Walton's "Angler" and the set of four Shakspeare folios. As two such sets have never before been presented—so far as is known—in any one sale, it will be extremely interesting to see which realizes the higher amount. "From a literary point of view," according to W. Roberts, in the London Athenæum, "there is no comparison between the two; but from the standpoint of the collector the Waltons have the most decided advantage: they are not merely in perfect and beautiful condition, as if only published yesterday, but one of them is a presentation copy, with autograph inscription of the author, 'Ffor Mrs. Ann King.' The Shakspeare folio are what are known as 'excellent' copies, the first measuring 12⅞ in. by 8¾ in., with the title inlaid and the corners of two leaves mended.

"Numerically the Caxtons make a good show with ten entries, but unfortunately only two of these are perfect—the 'Speculum Vitæ Christi" (1488?), of which Blades enumerates ten copies, three only (including this one) being perfect, and 'A Lytill Shorte Treatyse that Tellyth How There Were VII Maysters Assembled Togydre,' circa 1490, a little tract which forms one of the three coming under the general title of 'A Book of Divers Ghostly Matters,' and is probably unique . . . Wynkyn de Worde and Julian Notary are both represented by an edition each of the 'Legenda Aurea,' respectively 1498 and 1503, both imperfect, but both excessively rare.

"The larger sections in this portion comprise early editions of the Book of Common Prayer and English Primers, and a fine series of editions of the New Testament. As usual, they are for the most part more or less defective. . . . Of the Primers the earliest is a vellum copy of that of 'Salysbury use,' printed at Paris, 1531, and the rarest the vellum copy (probably unique) of the first edition of the first Reformed Primer, commonly called the King's Book, and printed by Byddell, June 16th, 1535.

". . . The early English Testaments bear painful evidences of their popularity, for nearly every one is either wanting leaves or has suffered from constant usage. There is an excellent copy of an excessively rare edition of Tyndale's translation, "Imprynted by Rychard Jugge in Paules Church Yarde at the Sygne of the Bible," 1548, unknown to Lea Wilson or Mr. Fry. Lowndes only knew of this copy. There is a perfect example of the second quarto edition of Tyndale's version revised, 1553, and also a fine large one of the first edition of Tomson's translation of Beza's New Testament, 1576.

"The books printed upon vellum form a most interesting feature in this portion, as they did in the former two. The choicest of all is the Jenson Pliny of 1472, which was most beautifully illuminated for one of the Donati family, several of whose members became Doges of Venice. . . .

"A fine series of 'Rappresentazioni,' Americana, and books and tracts on witchcraft demonstrate the exceedingly catholic taste of the late Earl of Ashburnham in the matter of book-collecting. Perhaps the rarest in the second of these three sections is the first edition of Ralegh's 'Discoverie of the Large, Rich, and Bewtiful Empire of Guiana,' 1596."

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. ELIZA BISBEE DUFFY, author of "No Sex in Education," etc., died in Sing Sing, N. Y., April 12. She was born in Ohio in 1838 and went to Vineland, N. J., in 1872, where she established a newspaper. She afterwards went to Troy, N. Y., where she edited a newspaper for many years. As a painter she achieved the distinction of being the first woman member of the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts.

NEWS comes from England of the suicide of Mrs. Eleanor Marx Aveling, the youngest daughter of Karl Marx. Mrs. Aveling translated Flaubert's "Madame Bovary," H. Lissagaray's "History of the Commune of Paris," etc. With Prof. Edward Aveling, whose name she bore, she prepared a work on "The Working Class Movement in America." She was also known as a speaker, and might often be heard at the open-air meetings in Hyde Park. Life had for some time had little attraction for her, and it was feared that she might end it as she did. The manner of her death gives a pathetic interest to the preface which she contributed to a work entitled "Revolution and Counter-Revolution, or, Germany in 1848," which was published in October, 1896, by Swan Sonnenschein & Co. In it she gave a graphic account of her own early days of sordid and grinding poverty, when her gifted father was living in Soho, earning a precarious guinea by penning these able papers. Immediately before her death she finished work in seeing through the press an epitome of her father's book "Capital." The epitome was made by Karl Marx himself, and will be published by Swan Sonnenschein & Co.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

W. ARTHUR WOODS has opened an office at 114 Fifth Avenue, New York, for the publication of Pearson's Magazine.

THE Cactus Journal is the title of a new periodical just published by E. W. Allen, 4 Ave Maria Lane, London, E. C. The Cactus Journal will deal with the plants of the cactus family, and each issue will contain a full-page plate. It is published at sixpence.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE interesting information is at hand that a "new and authorized life of Madame Patti is in contemplation."

IT has been decided to remove Edward Bellamy, who is dying of consumption, from Denver, Col., to his home in Chicopee Falls, Mass.

MACKENZIE BELL is engaged in preparing a book on Jean Ingelow, which is to be uniform with the one recently published on Christina Rossetti.

PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR and James Whitcomb Riley are writing a negro comic opera together, the cast, it is said, to be composed entirely of colored people. Who is to write the music has not yet been divulged.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Owing to the withdrawal of W. M. Jackson, the firm of Estes & Lauriat has been reorganized. It will be continued under the old name by the remaining partners—Dana Estes, Charles E. Lauriat, Charles E. Lauriat, Jr., Isaac R. Webber, Frederick Reid Estes, Eugene C. Belcher, and Francis Little. There is talk of separating the retail business of Estes & Lauriat from the publishing and jobbing branch; in fact, it is announced that Charles E. Lauriat, Charles E. Lauriat, Jr., Isaac R. Webber, and others to be associated with them, intend to form a corporation to be called the Charles E. Lauriat Company, or some other appropriate name, and will purchase the retail book business of the firm.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Benziger Brothers will remove on May 1 to 211–213 Madison Street, between Fifth Avenue and Franklin Street, where they will occupy a building more than twice as large as their old quarters.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The H. Parmalee Library Company has been incorporated by L. E. Dow, G. B. Smith, and J. A. Burch. Capital stock, $50,000.

GREENVILLE, TEX.—J. O. Teagarden, bookseller, has assigned by chattel mortgage to W. T. Jackson. The preferred creditors are: Neyland & Neyland, $200; L. T. Grelich, $200; First National Bank, $1350; Appleton & Co., $200, and other creditors to the extent of $750. Liabilities, $3000; stock is estimated at $6000.

NEW YORK CITY.—William Evarts Benjamin has removed from No. 10 to No. 6 West 22d Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Alberto Falcon has been appointed receiver of the copartnership property at 144 Madison Avenue, of E. A. Neresheimer and Mrs. Julia W. L. Keightley, in a suit brought by the former against the latter. The property consists of the theosophical magazine called The Universal Brotherhood, books, pamphlets, a printing press, type and plant, and outstanding accounts. William Q. Judge, who founded the business, upon his death willed it to Mr. Neresheimer and Mrs. Keightley, the latter residing in London. Mr. Neresheimer had furnished nearly all the capital, $3000, while Mrs. Keightley contributed $250. Since the death of Mr. Judge the business has been managed by Mr. Neresheimer, and the latter wanted Francis M. Pierce appointed receiver, but E. A. Hargrove, representing Mrs. Keightley, requested that a disinterested person be appointed, claiming that Mr. Neresheimer was endeavoring to get control of the property in the interest of the opposition party, composed of the followers of Mrs. Katherine A. Tingley. The receiver is authorized to continue the publication of the magazine for two months, or until the business is sold. The liabilities are $5500; nominal assets, $13,000; actual assets much less. On the 25th inst. Justice Werner in Special Term of the Supreme Court denied the motion of Alexander H. Spencer, as Vice-President of the Theosophical Society in America, for an injunction restraining Katherine A. Tingley and E. August Neresheimer from disposing of the property, records, and archives of the society, in pursuit of the plan to coalesce with the "Universal Brotherhood," and for a receiver of the property pending the litigation.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. R. Pelton will remove about May 1 from 129 Fifth Avenue to 19 East 16th Street, near Broadway. After this date he will give his entire attention to publishing and dealing in medical and surgical books, and this will enable him to carry a much larger and more complete stock than he has hitherto done. All the medical publications of the J. B. Lippincott Co., Lea Bros. & Co., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., W. B. Saunders, F. A. Davis Co., and indeed medical books of all publishers will be kept in stock.

NEW YORK CITY.—Henry K. Van Siclen, bookseller, has removed to 413 W. 22d Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—William J. Campbell has removed from 1009 to 1218 Walnut Street, securing better quarters in a better business neighborhood, near the great libraries and railroad stations.

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.—Faulkner & Smith have succeeded to the book business of N. F. Connelly.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Alcott heirs, so it is reported, received $12,000 in royalties from Roberts Brothers last year.

GEORGE ALLEN, London, will shortly add to his Library Series a volume on "The Prices of Books," by H. B. Wheatley.

E. FLAMMARION, Paris, has published Gyp's latest book, "Israël," a "story of merciless conversations of decidedly anti-semitic flavor."

HERBERT S. STONE & CO. have just published "The Londoners," a new novel by Robert Hichens, author of "The Green Carnation," etc.

IRVING P. FOX, Boston, will publish in May "The Tragedy of a Widow's Third," by Anna Christy Fall, with illustrations by Vesper L. George.

W. A. BUTTERFIELD, who has been for the past eight years with W. B. Clarke & Co., is now with the firm of De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., 361 Washington Street, Boston.

BENJAMIN A. M. SCHAPIRO, Superintendent of the Brooklyn [N. Y.] Christian Mission to the Jews, will shortly publish a volume entitled "Christian Obligations to the Jews." The volume will contain an introduction by the Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall.

HENRY ALTEMUS, Philadelphia, will shortly publish a new novel by Mrs. C. E. Satterthwait, entitled "A Son of the Carolinas"; "The Day Breaketh," a new book, by Mrs. Fanny Alricks Shugert, author of "Ezekiel, or from Bethlehem to Calvary"; and "She Who Will Not When She May," by Miss Eleanor G. Walton.

D. C. HEATH & CO. will publish in June "The Beginners' Reader," by Miss Florence Bass, of Indianapolis, the author of "Plant Life and Animal Life." The book begins with lessons in vertical script, leads the pupil through the sentence and word method to the phonic method, contains ample drill for the acquisition of a vocabulary, and many colored pictures.

AMERICAN managers might take a hint from Harrison & Maude, of London, who, instead of giving foolish silver-plated and pinchbeck knicknacks as theatrical souvenirs, have cele' brated the success of "The Little Minister' with a memento that is worth having—a prettily bound portfolio of black-and-white sketches, by Phil May, of all the characters in Mr. Barrie's play.

A NEWSBOY in Washington, D. C., who recently was put off the cars by the conductor and severely injured, won a damage suit against the railroad company of five thousand dollars. The court decided that the selling of newspapers was a public necessity and a legitimate business, and newsboys were entitled to the same protection as every other individual engaged in commerce.

THE possibilities which lay in "The Pride of Jennico" for stage purposes have not been allowed to remain long unnoticed. The Macmillan Company announce that arrangements are being made for its dramatization. While having a very different plot, the story has the same stirring qualities of dash and brilliancy as the "Prisoner of Zenda," and it is not surprising that the dramatist has so promptly recognized its value.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will publish at once "The Spaniard in History," by the Rev. James C. Fernald, of the editorial staff of the "Columbian Cyclopedia," and author of "A Study of the Inquisition." The work is said to "show that the long series of oppressions and cruelties in Cuba are only the natural development of Spanish policy and in accord with the character of the Spanish nation, as manifested in its history for more than 400 years."

L. E. HOOD, of South Boston, who, it is charged, has been building up an extensive private library by stealing books, was arrested in Cambridge on the 12th inst. The case will come up for trial next week. Hood was released on bail. He will, it is understood, make restitution. In all about 1000 books, valued at more than $2000, were taken from Hood's house. It is believed that Hood has taken these books from numerous second-hand stores in Boston, Cambridge, and other places.

A. S. BARNES & Co. will have ready in June a book entitled "Bird Gods in Ancient Europe," by Charles de Kay, described as a "novel excursion along the line of modern investigation respecting the origin of mythologies." It will be illustrated by George Wharton Edwards. They also announce "An Anglo-Saxon Reader," for beginners, by Prof. W. M. Baskervill, of Vanderbilt University; "Later English Plays," by Prof. Calvin S. Brown, of the same institution, and "Cape Cod Week," by Annie Eliot Trumbull.

M. F. MANSFIELD will shortly begin the publication of a series of books that are devoted to the rise of Britain's wealth and power throughout the earth. The first of the series is entitled "The Rise of an Empire," and is by Sir Walter Besant; the second is to be "The Story of Canada," by Howard Angus Kennedy. These are to be followed by "India," by D. C. Boulger; "Australasia," by Flora L. Shaw, and "South Africa," by W. Basil Worsfold. Mr. Mansfield also announces the first long story written by Morgan Robertson, to be entitled "Futility."

THERE is a rumor afloat that Benjamin W. Bond, who has so long been connected with the subscription book department of The Century Co. as manager, is contemplating retirement from active business. It is believed that Mr. Bond has been quite prosperous in business and that he can now retire while in full health and vigor, with a competency, and devote himself to general pursuits without anxiety as to the matter of profits. At the outset, it is said, he contemplates a prolonged vacation. If this rumor is well founded, no doubt The Century Co. will be on the lookout for a new manager for this important part of its business, for it can hardly be supposed that the company will abandon a field in which it has had such marked success with a few expensive and important works.

THE first volume of "The English Dialect Dictionary," containing the whole of A, B, and C, will be published next July by the Oxford University Press (Henry Frowde). This volume, consisting of nearly 900 pages, with introduction, will constitute about one-fourth of the whole work, excluding the supplement. It is interesting to note that A occupies 106 pages, but B no less than 370 pages—which shows in striking fashion the difference between a dialect and an ordinary dictionary. Altogether the first volume will make a brave show with 17,519 simple and compound words, and 2248 phrases, illustrated by 42,915 quotations, with the exact source from which they have been obtained. There are, in addition, 39,581 references to glossaries, to ms. collections of dialect words, etc., making a total of 82,496 references. In these statistics no account is taken of cross-references.

THE LOTHROP COMPANY, Boston, has recently been reorganized, Mr. Pennell having retired. The new firm is planning to publish books of colored pictures illustrating stories and verses for very little children. The experiments have been quite successful and promise well for the firm's venture in this direction. Among those in preparation are "Dainty Darlings and Their Doings," by Mrs. Ella Farman Pratt; "Children All," by Elbridge S. Brooks; "Happy Little People," by Mrs. M. D. Brine, and "Little Lads and Lasses," by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall. Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods's "A Little New England Maid" and Margaret Sydney's "A Little Maid of Concord" are war stories, and so is Miss Mary B. Sleight's "An Island Heroine," which deals with the occupation of Long Island. All four of the stories in Mr. Harold Frederic's "The Deserter" deal with war, two with our own civil contest, the other two with the York and Lancaster struggle. Another story of still more ancient battles is called "Cian of the Chariots," and the author is W. H. Babcock, of the Patent Office, the writer of "Two Lost Centuries." The second title is "Arthur, Emperor of Britain, and His Knights, and How They Delivered London and Overthrew the Saxons After the Downfall of Britain." The story grew out of the serious work "Two Lost Centuries," and the hero's name is pronounced "Kjan." Elbridge S. Brooks has completed his "True Story of Benjamin Franklin," a profusely illustrated quarto containing all of Franklin's history that can be told to a child.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce as the first volume in The Science Series "The Study of Man," by Prof. A. C. Haddon. The series will be edited by Prof. J. McKeen Cattell, of Columbia University, with the co-operation of Frank Evers Beddard, F.R.S., in Great Britain. Each volume of the series will treat some department of science with reference to the most recent advances, and will be contributed by an author of acknowledged authority. The advance of science has been so rapid, and its place in modern life has become so dominant, that it is needful to revise continually the statement of its results, and to put these in a form that is intelligible and attractive. The man of science can himself be a specialist in one department only, yet it is necessary for him to keep abreast of scientific progress in many directions. The volumes will be fully illustrated. The next issue of the Heroes of the Nations Series will be a "Life of Saladin," by Stanley Lane-Pool, which is, we understand, the first English biography of the celebrated Sultan, based almost entirely upon Arabic sources. Other announcements are: "The Philosophy of Government," a treatise, by George W. Walthew, "on the fundamental characteristics of man as exhibited in his relations to the state, and the ultimate form of civil government certain to result therefrom"; "Democracy and Social Growth in America," four lectures by Prof. Bernard Moses, of the University of California; "Electricity in the Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Nose, Throat, and Ear," by Dr. W. Scheppegrell, with 157 illustrations; "Glimpses of England," by Moses Coit Tyler, Professor of American History in Cornell University; "The Reformer of Geneva," a dramatic poem, by Charles Woodruff Shields, of Princeton University; "Capriccios," poems, by L. J. Block, author of "The New World," etc.; and "Wheat in the Ear," by "Alien," author of "A Daughter of the King," etc., in a new volume in the Hudson Library.

The Head of the Family

(NOW READY.)

Translated by LEVIN CARNAC. With a Critical Sketch by ADOLPHE COHN, A.M., Professor of the Romance Languages and Literatures, Columbia University. WITH 29 ILLUSTRATIONS BY MARCHETTI. 12mo, $1.50

"Alphonse Daudet's last book, 'Le Soutien de Famille' (published in the United States under the title of 'The Head of the Family'), will certainly rank among his very best productions. Daudet was never better inspired than when describing the family life of the French metropolis, and in his latter years he managed to combine with the soft Dickens-like humor of his earlier style an imaginative wit and a crisp sarcasm of which the first evidence was made feasible in 'L'Immortel.' The genius of the author of 'Tartarin' followed much the same development as did that of Pickwick's creator. The evil spirit of the story is an acknowledged delineation of M. Felix Faure. The book includes a wonderfully vivid description of a reception given in the time of Lord Dufferin at the British Embassy. . . . The story presents a brilliant analysis of the political temperament as developed in the Third Republic. . . . The characters are drawn with all the subtle delineation and are colored with all the light and shadow, the pathos, and the humor of which Daudet's genius, at its very best, was capable. 'Le Soutien de Famille' is certainly one of his very greatest works."—Paris Correspondent of N. Y. Times.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

Drake and the Tudor Navy

With a History of the Rise of England as a Maritime Power. By JULIAN S. CORBETT. With portrait, 24 plates (8 charts) and 14 illustrations in the text (6 charts). 2 vols., large 8vo, 948 pages, cloth, extra, $10.00.

A Memoir of Major-General Sir Henry Creswicke Rawlinson, Bart.

By GEORGE RAWLINSON, M.A., F.R.G.S., Canon of Canterbury, late Camden Professor of Ancient History in the University of Oxford. With an introduction by Field-Marshal Lord Roberts of Kandahar, V.C. With portraits, illustrations, and map. Large 8vo, $5.00.

The Life of Judge Jeffreys

By H. B. IRVING. With 3 portraits and a facsimile. 1 vol., 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

Mr. H. B. Irving's study of Judge Jeffreys aims at two things: First, to fill a gap in the biographical literature of the seventeenth century; and, second, to reproduce the general features of a period during which the proceedings of the courts of law were intimately associated with the history of the nation. There are three portraits of the notorious judge—one showing him as the Recorder of London, another as Lord Chief Justice, the last as Lord Chancellor; also, a facsimile of a letter in his handwriting.

FUR, FEATHER, AND FIN SERIES.

Edited by A. E. T. WATSON. (New Volume.)

The Salmon

By the Hon. A. E. GATHORNE-HARDY. With chapters on the Law of Salmon Fishing, by Claud Douglas Pennant, and Cookery, by Alexander Innes Shand. With 8 illustrations by Douglas Adams and Charles Whymper. Crown 8vo, $1.75; half roxburgh, $2.50.

The Sundering Flood

A Romance. By WILLIAM MORRIS, author of "The Earthly Paradise," etc. Printed in old style and bound in buckram with paper label. With a map. Crown 8vo, $2.25.

"The charm of the book is upon us still. The joy of life, the youthfulness of it all, the frank belief in the love of women and the honor of men, the open-eyed wonder of boyhood in presence of the beauty of God's universe, will go with us for days like some haunting strain of the music of a great master."—Daily News, London.

THE RED LILY. From the French of ANATOLE FRANCE.

An English translation of one of the most characteristic stories of this writer whose style has been spoken of as "Perfection in grace, the extreme flowering of the Latin genius." The plot of the story is laid partly in Florence and partly among diplomatic circles in Paris, and the dialogue is crisp and brilliant to a degree.

"Summer Reading."

To Retail Dealers:

THE SUMMER CATALOGUE, issued for twenty years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers in working up business during the slow summer season, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The twenty-first issue, with an attractive cover, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY about the first of June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading-matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will also be useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments, or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

☞ Orders for imprint editions at subscription rates should be sent in at once, as the quantity is limited.

Terms for Editions with Imprint:

100 copies,	$3 50
500 "	15 00

Directions for shipping should be given with the order. If sent by mail, postage will be charged extra.
